

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to compositions and methods for treating the nutritional deficiencies observed in patients suffering from renal disease and associated disorders.

Specifically, the method involves administering to a renal patient a composition comprising
5 vitamin C, vitamin E, the B-complex vitamins, chromium, selenium, and zinc.